

Erasmus was one of the best experiences in my life, if not the best.

I did my Erasmus at Edge Hill University in the United Kingdom. I always knew I wanted to do Erasmus. Although I never imagined myself doing it in the United Kingdom, it ended up being the perfect place for me. My university was located in a small town, close to Liverpool. The campus was huge and had a variety of services. So many of us international students spent a lot of our free time there. The university had different societies that you could participate in which was a good way to get to know a lot of people from different cultures. I felt welcomed and I made long-lasting friendships. Furthermore, I loved experiencing a different teaching system. I was surprised by the quality of it and felt I improved a lot academically. I am thankful for the opportunity to spend a semester abroad. Erasmus was one of the best experiences in my life, if not the best.
