

I believe that this mobility would surely help my studies and future career.

I am a second-year student of communication and digital marketing and am very interested in multicultural communication. For the Autumn semester, I studied at Marmara university in Turkey using the Erasmus program.

This Erasmus experience has been a great opportunity to make friends from various countries, improve my English, and learn their traditions for me. I also found that education in Turkey is very similar to Japanese schools. While MRU often offers practical sessions, Marmara university gives more non-interactive lectures. In this education style, the students tend to study for exams. So after this semester I really appreciate MRU training us to be able to get new ideas and learn a deeper understanding of a lot of concepts.

I also enjoyed studying in Turkey as there were so many Erasmus events, and the mentors were well organized and supportive. I believe that this mobility would surely help my studies and future career.
