

MRU Doctoral Student of Law, Ricardo Sergio, shares a reflection on his Erasmus+ traineeship experience in Austria, particularly at the esteemed Vienna University of Economics and Business. His insights serve as a short but to-the-point feedback regarding the enriching possibilities that await fellow students considering Erasmus+ traineeship for doctoral students.

"The Erasmus experience was amazing, both from an academic and personal perspective. I have had the opportunity to conduct important research at one of the most acknowledged centers for international tax law in the world and to exchange experience with colleagues from all over the world, opening the doors for a stronger cooperation between the Vienna University of Economics and Business and our Mykolas Romeris University in the field of international tax law, thus potentializing our internationalization.

Besides that, I have had an incredible time living in Austria and exploring that beautiful country."
